Legislators Receive 2008 Environmental Leadership Awards from Georgia Conservation Voters

Honors Based Upon Demonstrated Support for Protecting Georgia's Natural Resources

WHAT: The 2008 legislative session saw intensive debate over water, transportation and other quality of life issues. While it ended on a contentious note, many legislators made strides in introducing or championing legislation or voting to promote land conservation, Jekyll Island protection, water conservation, transportation choices, clean energy and more. These legislators will be celebrated at the Eighth Annual Environmental Leadership Awards.
